

Amendments to the Specification

Please replace the abstract with the following paragraph (a marked-up version of the abstract is attached hereto):

Methods and systems for managing biological databases. The methods and systems can comprise creation, organization, and presentation of biological databases. The biological databases can be created using data obtained from a plurality of other databases and periodically updated. An executive summary can be created for a biological sequence using the biological database.